THE announcement that the first meeting of the Pacific Council, which was established under the American-Australian-New Zealand Security Treaty signed in San Francisco last autumn, will be held in Honolulu at the beginning of August represents a small but important step towards the realization of the intentions of the two Dominions. It had been expected that the State Department would insist on having the first meeting, which it had been agreed that the Secretary of State himself should attend, held in Washington. The fact that Mr. Acheson is now prepared to fly to a two- or three-day meeting which, although it will be held on American soil, is half-way round the world from here, is a concession which he was not expected to make.

THE establishment of the Pacific Council is not an American idea, and there has never been any very noticeable enthusiasm for it in the State Department. It was established as a subsidiary to the tripartite Security Pact which in turn was a concession to the generous terms of the Peace Treaty with Japan and to her fear of being expected to a resurgent Japan.

WHAT the council will discuss has not yet been decided. As envisaged by Mr. Acheson, the Prime Minister of Australia, one of its main functions will be to overcome her isolation from the central planning of the free world owing to the fact that she is not and cannot be a member of N.A.T.O. One of its objects will be to provide a clearing house of ideas in which the Australian and New Zealand Foreign Ministers can learn what is being planned by N.A.T.O. and by Washington and express their views upon it. For later meetings permanent representatives will be appointed and there is a possibility that the Council will establish a small permanent staff in Honolulu.

Mr. Acheson's decision to go to Honolulu is prompted by the same motive that has brought about his visit to Israel this week—a realization that in the past two or three years the senior American officials have had their eyes so concentrated upon two areas, Europe and the Far East, that they have had little opportunity to consider the problems of the other areas of the free world. This is a fact that has been resented vociferously in many Latin American countries and with more dignity and diplomatic skill by Australia and New Zealand.

THE Pacific Council has been seen as a step towards the new Pacific Council may be from the nucleus of a much wider regional alliance in the Pacific and South-East Asia akin to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to include initially Canada and the Philippines, and broadening out to embrace Indonesia, Siam and Burma. Mr. Thomas Dewey, the Governor of New York who might well be the next Secretary of State if General Eisenhower were elected President, has advocated such a plan. The British Government is known to favour some regional organization to coordinate defence in South-East Asia. But as far as Mr. Acheson and the outgoing administration are concerned, the idea has fallen on barren ground, for it is argued that the United States, while being increasingly involved in the security and well-being of South-East Asia, cannot afford to be committed and have then formulated in a regional Pacific Pact at this moment. Therefore, if there is to be a change in American policy, it will not come until after the new administration takes office next January.

Roadway to Control AN U.S. NATO Forces

WASHINGTON, Wednesday (Reuter). — President Truman yesterday gave General Ridgway direct control of all U.S. forces in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in addition to his overall authority as Supreme Commander of the Western Allied Forces.

Taft Hopes For Early Victory

CHICAGO, Wednesday. — Senator Taft claimed this evening that he already had enough votes to win him the first nomination. The Credentials Committee, which has a three to two pro-Taft majority, conceded the 17 man Florida delegation to Senator Taft, and awarded him 22 seats from the contested Texas delegation.

Senator Taft's supporters claim that they will fight what they call "fortress America" in the credentials committee on the floor of the convention. No decisions by credentials committees have ever yet been overturned on the floor of the convention.

THE Resolutions Committee agreed on the Party's election programme, which will now go before the convention, after a six-hour debate. Though discussions on the programme have been kept secret with the aid of strict "security" precautions, the main planks are believed to be known. They include the "liberalization" of economic controls, the abolition of most rent controls, cuts in taxes, and the ending of inflation.

Foreign policy will include the commitment to support collective security, and the foreign aid necessary to maintain it, together with a "balanced force" and "adequate" air power to deter aggression.

The only plank which caused the civil rights question, over which Negro delegates had threatened to carry their fight to the floor of the convention.

8,000 Jobless Last Month

National unemployment hit

National unemployment hit an all-time high last month when more than 8,000 jobless were registered almost daily at the Labour Exchange, it was learned yesterday in Jerusalem. The previous high was reached in May when the average figure was about 5,000.

The Jerusalem area was about the only one that began to show a significant drop about a fortnight ago when new afforestation and public works projects got under way. Last week 310 persons—about half the registered unemployed in the capital—were assigned work by the Exchange. They included 125 in afforestation, 75 in various corridor settlements, 60 in public works, and 50 on sewage projects.

The downward trend in Jerusalem is expected to continue as additional afforestation and public works projects are launched and with the resumption of work in about a week's time on Binyamin Haoma.

In other parts of the country it is expected that a large number of unemployed will find work in agriculture, such as rehabilitating abandoned citrus groves and tending productive ones, and in harvesting grapes. Others are expected to be hired for public works projects that are scheduled to get started after the Development Budget is passed by the Knesset.

Mr. Wolf Winer (Communist) complained yesterday that 100,000 Jewish youths were "rotting" in Haifa harbour because the authorities would not clear them. He charged that this was an attempt to force the Government to accept the Communist Party's demand for a general strike.

The Communist member and Dr. Moshe Shatz (Mapam) argued that the Government should clear the harbour. He said that the Government should clear the harbour because it was a public health hazard.

TEL AVIV, Wednesday (ITIM)

TEL AVIV, Wednesday (ITIM). — Four young Spaniards, aged between 19 and 24, who stowed away in the s.s. Elath when she was anchored off Haifa, were taken to the police today. Their statements to the police have been forwarded to the Foreign Ministry for a decision whether they are to be regarded as political refugees.

The stowaways were discovered after the ship sailed from Barcelona. They were not allowed to land when the Elath touched at Haifa, but were questioned about ship while in port and during the journey to Tel Aviv.

The stowaways told the police that they had fled from France Spain because of their opposition to its politics. Two of them also said that they could not make a living in Spain and had decided to "try their luck" in Israel. All four had served in the Spanish army and had later joined the Spanish merchant marine.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said that the four young men were not considered to be political refugees. He said that the Government
